its growth in size, and increased production and quality.

Adam is currently finishing up a five-year degree in Food and Agricultural Business Co-Op at the University of Guelph (U of G). He plans on graduating in April of 2020. Prior to university, he attended Westmount Secondary School where he achieved honour roll and graduated as an Ontario Scholar. Adam's interest in livestock and agriculture reflects in his many academic and non-academic activities. He is the president of the U of G judging team and has been to many intercollegiate judging competitions and has recently begun judging local 4-H shows. He volunteers at the College Royal Open House at the U of G, which is the largest run open house in North America. He has also held the positions of Beef Show Chairman and Chair of the Canadian Intercollegiate Judging Competition.

Adam began showing keen interest in the Hereford breed at the age of ten, beginning with his first 4-H project, a Hereford Heifer. Fast forward to Adam completing his final year of 4-H in which he has only shown Hereford cattle. Over the years, Adam's heifers became increasingly competitive as he expanded his herd, purchasing cattle from various breeders across Canada. Adam has exhibited his Hereford cattle across Canada and has worked for other breeders at shows as well.

Adam became involved in the Ontario Junior Hereford Association as a director in 2015. He then served as vice-president and then president, the position he currently holds. He took on National Delegate responsibilities during this time as well and served as CJHA President in 2018.
